

Dr Chan Kin Yuen

Dr Chan Kin Yuen is a consultant orthopaedic surgeon who practises at Gleneagles Hospital, Kuala Lumpur and Subang Jaya Medical Center, Kuala Lumpur. He received his medical degree from Nottingham University Medical School and continued his postgraduate training at Liverpool Orthopaedic Training Programme. He has also undertaken clinical fellowships at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and Prince of Wales Hospital in Sydney. His interest lies in arthroscopic surgery as well as joint replacement surgery. Dr Chan has been previously involved with teaching of medical students at Monash University, Sunway and is frequent contributor to national and international conferences and courses involving Orthopaedic surgeons, Orthopaedic Trainees and Sports Medicine Physicians, General Practice Physicians and Nurses.

Dr Chan is the current president of Malaysian Association of Sports Medicine since 2014.